BOSTON, Aug. 2.—The wool market here is quiet this week most manufacturers having freely stocked up during the early part of the summer. Dealers have sold enough of their new wools to make them feel independent for some time and a firm ione prevails. Future prices depend to some extent on the state of the goods market, which has not been as active as the manufacturers would like. Fleeces and Territory wools are firm and the present demand for fleece wools is largely for the medium grades.
